New Taxi Rules

Riding taxis in Chapel Hill will be more convenient and consistent, thanks to new taxi regulations that take effect Jan. 1.

Reflecting the Council's interest of maintaining consistent high quality taxi services in Chapel Hill, local regulations were updated for taxi fares and companies. The changes set a flat rate between $6 and $8 for an area that extends to a 1-1/2 mile radius around the Chapel Hill Central Business District. The flat rate zone includes all of the Central Business District, most of the main campus of UNC, and a large area of predominantly student occupied housing located north of Rosemary Street up to North Estes Drive. The western edge of the zone ends at the Carrboro city limit.

Taxi stands have been established at bus stops near the Carolina Coffee Shop on the 100 block of East Franklin Street and near the Chapel Hill News on the 500 block of West Franklin Street. Taxis will be able to park in these locations when buses are not in service, from 11:30 p.m. to 4 a.m.
