Summer Road Construction Update

Construction projects are well underway this summer that will bring infrastructure benefits valued at more than $11 million, after the dust clears.

"We thank motorists for their patience during this busy summer of road construction," said Town Manager Roger L. Stancil. "Although most projects have been in planning for several years, they are a nuisance when they occur at once. The good news is that we expect most major traffic impacts to end after August."

Several projects will continue after the summer, but the major traffic impacts will have concluded.

1. South Columbia Street Widening Project: This NC Department of Transportation (NCDOT) project is progressing on schedule.

2. Smith Level Road Widening Project: This NCDOT project is progressing on schedule.

3. Culbreth Road Closure for Trail Project: This project will not be completed by the beginning of the school year, as setbacks have occurred due to heavy rains and issues underground. However, the road will be reopened with construction flagmen when the public schools are back in session and passable to traffic, including public school and Chapel Hill Transit buses.

4. East Cameron Project: The OWASA/UNC project is progressing on schedule and is expected to be completed by mid-August.

5. Weaver Dairy Road Project: This NCDOT project is expected to be completed this summer.

Locally Grown Concert Thursday

Grab a chair and head to Wallace Plaza at 150 E. Rosemary St. on Thursday night for another installment in the Locally Grown Music and Movies Series! On Thursday, July 25, enjoy soft rock super heroes The Wusses, with opening act The Whom, a Who cover band. Concert nights kick off with a beer garden at 7 p.m. and a selection of food vendors. Live music starts at 8 p.m.

Locally Grown will continue on Thursday nights through Aug. 29 with local musical favorites and family movies.
