Community Input Needed on Arts and Culture

What is the power of arts and culture in a community? What impact have the arts had on your life? What arts and cultural activities should the Town focus on? These are the types of questions the Town of Chapel Hill is asking residents to answer in a brief survey. Your responses will help Chapel Hill Community Arts & Culture create a mission statement and develop responsive programs and projects.

Community Arts & Culture was recently created in response to the community's interest in and Town Council's prioritization of arts and culture in Chapel Hill. The division currently includes public art, arts programs, and festivals and special events.

The survey will be open through Friday, Feb. 8, and takes about five minutes to complete.

Community Meeting: Multi-Use Path

Chapel Hill Transit will hold a community meeting from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Monday, Feb. 4, at Chapel Hill Public Library to talk about plans for multi-use paths for cyclists and pedestrians along a major transit corridor that extends from Eubanks Road to Southern Village.

Plans for the North-South Bus Rapid Transit (BRT) route include expanding dedicated space for cyclists and pedestrians. At the meeting, you can share how you currently use bike and pedestrian lanes and provide input for the final design.

The North-South BRT system is projected to be completed in 2022. BRT combines high-capacity buses with exclusive traffic lanes and traffic signal priority to decrease travel times and improve the rider experience.
